

Chance Trahan 2020 calls Donald Trump a RINO

Chance Trahan, US Presidential Candidate changes the game on rockstar politicians

LOS ANGELES - Jan. 14, 2020 - PRLog -- — With Twitter giving Politics and MSM nowhere to hide, Chance Trahan, who is a 2020 US Presidential Candidate, is making quite a scene and giving all of his opponents a run for their money. No one will admit that Chance has chosen a more traditional route than all the rest of the candidates when campaigning for US President, and that it's actually working. He's taking his campaign and information one person at a time, and results show that the people are reacting to what he's got to say. He's a candidate who's not taking any big money at all to compete and he's certainly not shy to speak his piece.

"Sad that no one wants to debate me as a candidate, in fact, they're quite afraid to. Just look at how many candidates have dropped out already. No one wants to support someone that got caught by me and other independent journalists bold-faced lying about scandals in the media. I don't do like they do, I get all my campaign's donation money from locals and I'm taking a real Grassroots effort to campaign for 2020 Presidency. The truth will come out if I enter a televised debate, and you can believe me when I say these corrupt politicians don't want you to witness that. They're so desperate to avoid me being put into a position-of-power that there's over 20 Democratic candidates running just to make sure that I stay undiscovered – but here I am, shining," he stated.

"Trump has turned the White House into one big Reality Television show. Look, if you think that Donald is a Republican, then you might want to think again. He's been a lifelong Democrat. You don't just wake up one day and suddenly decide that you're a different party. It's not that easy. Trust me, I tried. Trump is a RINO (Republican In Name Only) through and through, like I also suggest that McCain and Mitt Romney is, and boy, does The Donald have a lot of people fooled. I'm a lifelong Nonpartisan, which is the choice of the Military. My whole family is Republican though, hence how I'm so good at spotting a RINO." Trahan continued.

Chance Trahan's party preference seems to be a pretty bold choice, considering that the path he chose leaves voters tasked with actually having to write his name on the ballot – should they decide to take a chance on Chance in the voting booth this November.
